Human Resource Educator Concentration
MSEd Curriculum and Instruction – General Education

People, in any organization, are the essence of what outcomes are made of. Each contribution (positive or negative) that is made, whether individually, or part of a team, is pivotal to the daily operations of the entity in which they belong. Understanding human needs, both interpersonally, and in the context of an organization, is at the core of these courses. These will introduce concepts related to the interaction between one another, strategies related to the development of members of the organization, and ways to reduce conflict and improve outcomes within the organization.

The courses in this program include:
IT 503 Teambuilding
IT 501 Staff Development
IT 502 Human Resources
IT 509 Conflict Resolution

*Coursework subject to change and changes in availability from one semester to the next